EDMONTON BULLETIN, APRIL 9, 1892

SCHOOLS.

The Qu'Appelle Vidette does not like the new system of school grants which is to come into force on July 1st, and calls upon the editor of this great journal for explanations. The Vidette's objections are:

(1) That schools in certain large centres will receive an increased allowance while the grants to many country schools will be reduced.

(2) That the system is one of "payment by results" and therefore objectionable.

In reply to the first objection it may be stated that the reason the grants to the large schools mentioned are unduly increased is because the special grant of $350 for union or high schools received under the old system has been continued to them, contrary to the intention of the framers of the new system and in direct contradiction of the principle which it embodies.

In reply to the second objection it is desirable to emphasize the fact that the new system is most distinctly not a system of "payment by results," but of "payment by requirements," modified in all cases by the ability and willingness of the people of the school districts, in the first place to bear their fair share of the burdens entailed by school advantages, and in the next place by their ability and willingness to avail themselves of those advantages.

A reduction in the amounts paid under the old system or a change from the system itself was rendered compulsory by the fact that there was not enough funds available to pay the amounts required under it. In view of the fact that under the old system the schools were drawing from the government practically without regard to their requirements, it was felt that when a reduction had to be made it was fairer to reduce by equalization rather than by a general reduction without regard to requirements. Under this new system the government does not agree to pay a fixed percentage on any amount fixed by the school district, as at present; nor on an indefinite amount to be fixed by the conditions provided in the new ordinance. It agrees to pay a certain percentage of the salary agreed to be paid by the trustees to the teacher, provided the conditions laid down in the ordinance justify that payment; or such portion of the salary agreed to be paid as these conditions will justify. The idea is that the country should not be called upon to pay a higher salary to a teacher than the services which he has the opportunity to render will justify; at the same time according to the trustees the privilege of paying any salary they please. Not as at the present time compelling the government to pay any amount the trustees may please.

To make clear that the new system is one of "payment by requirements" as distinguished from "payment by results" a short statement of the system itself is, perhaps, in order.

The assembly considers that $30 a month is a fair salary for conducting a primary school; that if a school of an average attendance of six to ten pupils under standard IV, and will pay 70 per cent of the salary agreed to be paid by the trustees up to that amount.

For every pupil in average attendance, over an average of ten, the assembly considers that the teacher's services are fairly worth $5 a year, or say roughly 50c a month more, and will pay 70 per cent of the salary agreed to be paid up to that amount.

For every pupil in average attendance engaged in studies above standard III, the assembly considers that the greater education and ability required to teach such a pupil make the teacher's services fairly worth $25 a year, or say, roughly, $2 a month more; and will pay 70 per cent of the salary agreed to be paid up to that amount.

A teacher holding a second class certificate is considered to be worth $25 a year more, other things being equal, than one holding a third or provisional certificate and the government will pay 70 per cent of the salary agreed to be paid up to that amount.

A teacher holding a first class certificate is considered, other things being equal, to be worth $50 a year more than one holding a third or provisional certificate, and the government will pay 70 per cent of the salary agreed to be paid up to that amount.

These are all payments by the government according to requirements and ability, leaving the trustees to be judges of the results of the teaching and their value.

The difficult point of the system is to make a proper distinction between pupils who should properly be in standards three and four respectively, and if this were left to the teachers or the trustees, no doubt the system would be unfair and unworkable. But as the government is the party interested it steps in and through its inspectors holds regular written examinations in all schools, as is the usage in Ontario, and upon the results of these examinations, decides what pupils are sufficiently advanced to be rated above standard three. There is a possibility of teachers attempting to force pupils from standard three to standard four, but the government is in a position—if it has competent inspectors—to protect its interests in this matter. Let it be remembered that the school does not draw on the government for the number of pupils who are passed from standard three to standard four at each examination; but on the number who, having passed beyond standard three, are in average attendance and therefore requiring the services of a teacher with higher qualifications, during succeeding years.

LADOGA WHEAT.

W. Sanders, director of government experimental farms, has addressed a circular letter to various papers in the Northwest justifying the course of the department of agriculture in introducing Ladoga wheat into the Northwest and recommending its growth by farmers. The tenor of the letter is an apology rather than a justification, and is brought out by the stand taken by Northwest millers and grain buyers, who put down Ladoga wheat as a failure. An apology was not necessary under the circumstances. The Ladoga was not introduced to replace a better wheat but to be grown where a finer quality was not successful, or so that the farmer might sow both red fife and Ladoga, and if he lost the former might be saved from total loss by the latter. Beyond question the Ladoga has come up to expectations. It does ripen ten days earlier than red fife, it yields almost, if not quite as well, and is not smutty, as yet. Mr. Saunders says it is more liable to rust. What may be the case in other parts of the country the BULLETIN does not know, but begs to inform Mr. Saunders that rust of Ladoga or any other wheat or grain is unknown in the Edmonton district. That it is not equal for milling purposes to the red fife no one pretends to deny; at the same time it makes good flour, which is the important point. Mr. Saunders alludes to a milling test made in Minneapolis which is said to have been so unfavorable to Ladoga wheat as to condemn it as a failure. Regarding this test. In the first place the alleged facts may not be facts at all. In the next place Ladoga, which is essentially a northern wheat, is not nearly as perfect when grown near Minneapolis, in, say, latitude 45, as when grown on the Saskatchewan, in latitude 53½, eight and a-half degrees nearer its native latitude of 60 degrees north. So a test of Minnesota grown Ladoga might be very unsatisfactory and one of Saskatchewan Ladoga be satisfactory. The question as to the value of Ladoga wheat is not as between good Ladoga and equally good red fife. It is between good Ladoga and frozen red fife. Is it more profitable to raise good Ladoga, or poor red fife; or is it more profitable for the farmer to risk his all from year to year on a crop of red fife, or take measures to save himself from ruin by growing half Ladoga and half red fife? The efforts of the great millers and grain buyers to keep down the price of Ladoga and prevent its introduction as completely as possible may be accounted for on other grounds than its really less value for milling purposes. If a standard for Ladoga were once adopted and that wheat could be brought to market, year after year, in perfect condition, there would not be the same speculation in wheat dealing that prevails to day, when the real bonanza for buyers is in handling slightly frosted red fife. While holding out the inducement of a high price for No. 1 hard, the miller knows what a small proportion of that grade will be brought in, and how good profits he can make on the lower prices paid for the slightly damaged but almost equally good grain. Everybody knows that while quotations for No. 1 hard wheat throughout Manitoba, during the past winter, averaged, say, 70c., the farmers did not get an average of 50c. a bushel on the wheat hauled to market, on the grounds of its being frosted. If the farmers could have harvested a full crop of Ladoga they could have taken ten cents a bushel less for it than the price quoted for No. 1 hard, and yet would have been ten cents a bushel ahead on the transaction. Of course every farmer who can should grow red fife, but that is not to say that he should not also grow Ladoga as a partial insurance against frost. All credit is due to the experimental farms for the introduction of the Ladoga wheat. At the same time it may not be out of place to mention that there is a variety of wheat acclimated in Edmonton by having been grown here for many years that is equally as early as the Ladoga and is probably a finer grain, while it is as hard as the red fife. It does not, as a rule, however, yield as well as the Ladoga, and through careless farming has become smutty. It is called the red club, and is a very distinct variety. The experimental farms could not do better than take notice of this wheat and try to improve its yielding qualities. It is certainly a very early and very hard and hardy wheat.

DR. BRAITHWAITE BANQUETED AT FORT SASKATCHEWAN.

On Monday evening, the 4th instant, Dr. Edward Braithwaite, of "G" Division, Northwest Mounted Police, was tendered a banquet by his comrades and the citizens of Fort Saskatchewan. The occasion being his leaving the Force and Fort Saskatchewan. Dr. Braithwaite is one of the most successful and popular medical men the force has ever had, and it was with regret that the members of the Division heard they were to lose him. The usual toasts were given, and when the chairman arose and proposed "the Guest of the evening, our comrade and everyone's friend," such a burst of cheering greeted Dr. Braithwaite that it was some minutes before he could speak. He thanked everyone for the honor done him, and made some feeling remarks on the great kindness that had always been shown him by the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Force, no matter where he had been stationed, and also by the citizens everywhere. He said he was leaving the Force for the purpose of going to reside in Edmonton and practising his profession, and that he was grateful to that town for the kindly manner in which he had been received there.

Other Toasts and songs were given during the remainder of the evening. The banquet closed with rousing cheers for the doctor and best wishes. "Auld Lang Syne" and "God save the Queen."

THE CENSUS.

Census Bulletin, No. 5, gives the population of Alberta in 1891 as 25,277 against 16,533 in 1885. Edmonton district has 6,875 against 5,616 in '85. Calgary and Red Deer have 11,199 against 5,467 in '85. MacLeod has 7,203 against 4,450 in '85. This includes Indians and whites. As the Indian population of the Territories shows a decrease of 7,450 since 1885 it will be seen that the increase of the white population of Alberta during the six years must have been between twelve and fifteen thousand. The apparently small increase in the Edmonton district is no doubt largely accounted for by the large actual decrease in the Indian population. The establishment of the town of Lethbridge since '85 accounts for the large increase in the MacLeod district. The large increase in the Calgary and Red Deer district—nearly double—is very satisfactory, but will be far excelled by the Edmonton district in the current six years. East Assiniboia increased from 14,091 to 20,482; West Assiniboia from 7,992 to 9,890; and Saskatchewan from 10,746 to 11,150. Manitoba has increased from 25,228 in 1871, to 62,200 in 1881, 108,640 in 1885 and 152,505 in 1891. Winnipeg city increased from 241 in 1871 to 7,985 in 1881, 20,238 in 1885, and 25,639 in 1891. British Columbia has increased from 30,247 in 1871 to 49,459 in 1881 and 97,612 in 1891. The Cariboo district shows a decrease from 7,550 in 1881 to 4,970 in 1891. This decrease is partly caused by incomplete returns and partly by a division of the district; but there has been an actual decrease of the mining population in the interval, with an increase in the agricultural population. Victoria city shows an increase from 4,540 in 1871 to 7,301 in 1881 and to 18,508 in 1891. Vancouver city has increased from nothing in 1881 to 13,709 in 1891. New Westminster city has increased from 1,500 in 1881 to 6,678 in 1891.

The council of every town may pass by-laws for the following purposes:

(1.) For providing the means of ascertaining and determining what real property will be immediately benefited by any proposed improvement or work, the expense of which is proposed to be assessed as hereinafter mentioned upon the real property benefited thereby; and of ascertaining and determining the proportions in which the assessment is to be made on the various portions of real estate so benefited; and there shall be the same right of appeal in any such assessment of the court of revision and from the court of revision to the judge of the supreme court as is provided for in other cases of assessment by this ordinance, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as in such other cases, except where different provisions are hereinafter made. It shall be deemed to have been and to be a sufficient compliance with the preceding paragraph of this subsection if the council shall have passed or shall pass a general by-law or general by-laws providing the means of ascertaining and determining what real property will be immediately benefited by any proposed improvements or work, the expense of which is proposed to be assessed upon the real property immediately benefited thereby, and of ascertaining and determining the proportions in which the assessment is to be made on the various portions of real estate so benefited and it shall not be deemed to have been or to be necessary to pass a special by-law for the purposes above mentioned in each particular instance.

(2.) For assessing and levying by means of a special rate the costs of any public improvement or work, such as deepening any stream or watercourse or draining any locality or making, enlarging or prolonging any common sewer or opening, widening, prolonging, altering, macadamizing, grading, levelling, laying, paving or planking any street, lane, alley, public way, or place or sidewalk or any bridge forming part of a highway therein or curbing, sodding, or planting any street, lane, alley, square or other public place or reconstructing as well as constructing any work thereby provided for.

Nothing contained in the preceding subsections shall be construed to apply to any such work of ordinary repair or maintenance, but all works constructed under the said preceding subsections shall thereafter be kept in a good and sufficient state of repair at the expense of the municipality generally.

(a.) The special rate to be so assessed and levied, to be an annual rate according to the frontage thereof upon the real property fronting or abutting upon the street or place, whereupon or wherein such improvement or work is proposed to be done or made; Provided always, that no such rate shall be assessed or levied except upon a petition presented to the said council of at least two-thirds of the owners of such real property, representing at least one-half the value of such real property; But when such petition has been so presented, it shall be lawful for the said council in the same or succeeding year to carry on the proposed work, improvement or service to completion, before making the assessment therefor, and such petition so presented shall stand good as authority for undertaking any such work, improvement or service and making such assessment or assessments and passing all necessary by-laws, whether the same shall have been or shall be undertaken and completed by the council to whom such petition is presented or by the council in any succeeding year.

(3.) For regulating the time or times and manner in which the assessments to be levied under this section are to be paid, and for arranging the terms on which parties assessed for local improvements may commute for the payment of their proportionate shares of the cost thereof in principal sums.

ANGUS MCKAY, of the Indian Head, Assa. experimental farm, told a meeting of Prince Albert farmers that there was a great difference in climate between Prince Albert and Indian Head; one difference being that Prince Albert is entirely free from those withering winds that frequently visit the plain country to the south. Mr. McKay thought that farming on the plains and farming in a wooded country, such as Prince Albert, are entirely different things, with many advantages to the latter. These statements by such an authority are well worth the careful consideration of intending settlers who may also be reminded that the Edmonton district is better timbered than that of Prince Albert, and therefore has, at least, equal advantages in that particular, and besides has a milder winter climate. Don't forget that Edmonton contains more material advantages to the settler than other sections of North America.

Free Press Ottawa despatch: G. H. Campbell has left for Winnipeg. Before leaving he arranged for the erection of immigrant buildings at Prince Albert and Edmonton and for the appointment of agents to meet people when they arrive there.

THE coal seam on the south bank of the river opposite town is on fire, having started close to where a drift was being worked last winter. The smoke can be seen all day and the fire all night. Although it has been burning for some time it is not larger than an ordinary camp fire. It has probably been started accidentally from a fire built for cooking or heating purposes too close to the seam.
